Move is Necessary to Pre-

of Coal Miners—Predicts Demand Will Be Made at Coming Wage Conference
—Pick Mining Lost Art

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Bellaire, O., Oct. 7.—Demands for a seven hour day will be made by coal miners of the country at coming wage conferences, according to John P. White, president of the United States Mine Workers of America, speaking at the miners' day celebration here today. Such a move is necessary, he said, in order to conserve the economic and social welfare of members of the miners' organizations and results from the increased use of mining machines.

"Having established the eight hour day universally throughout the jurisdiction of our union and likewise the mine run system, we can well afford to turn our attention to the coming wage conferences to a further reduction in the hours of labor for, in my opinion, such a move is necessary if we are to conserve the economic and social welfare of our fast membership," President White declared. "This is made almost essential because of the increased use and introduction of machines. The records show there are more machines used in coal mining now than at any time in our history. So widespread has become their use that pick mining in many districts has become almost a lost art.

"There were in use in the coal mines of the United States in 1913, 16,378 machines, which produced 242,421,713 tons of coal. In 1914 this number was increased to 16,507 machines, producing 218,399,287 tons of coal.

"Despite the depression that prevailed in 1914, reducing the total output of the mines, the machines in operation increased as these figures show. I am therefore impressed with the great fact that if we prepare our movement for the inauguration of these cardinal reforms in our coming wage conferences we will be able to secure it and its benefits will rebound greatly to the advancement of our people. This will result in an eight hour day from bank to bank or a seven hour day on the present basis."

President White reviewed the progress made by the miners' union, declaring that the men by their collective efforts have raised themselves practically from the condition of serfdom to that of respect in the eyes of the whole community.

The persecution of our people in some sections where our organization has engaged in industrial strife is without a parallel," he added. "Particularly do I refer to the great strikes of Colorado, West Virginia and certain sections of Pennsylvania. But the steady entry of our movement into these citadels of opposition is bearing fruit and the opposition to the establishment of our union is gradually yielding to the enlightening influences of the organization and wage increases and reduction in hours of labor are being accomplished in the interest of deserving fellow workers."

MOEWE'S CAPTAIN LOSES LIFE ON FRENCH FRONT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Oct. 7.—Count Von Dohna-Schodden, commander of the German cruiser Moewe, has been killed in France, according to a Milan dispatch to the Chronicle. Count Dohna-Schodden was in command of a battalion of the Thirty-Fifth Infantry regiment.

A dispatch from the British front in France on Oct. 2 stated that among prisoners taken by the British were sailors from the second German naval division. These sailors were said to have been rushed to the Somme front from Belgium where for two years they had been guarding the coast with big naval guns.

The German cruiser Moewe escaped from the British blockade some time toward the end of 1915 and for several months successfully raided all commerce, capturing or sinking 15 steamers. On February 1, 1916, the British steamer Appam arrived in Hampton Roads with a German prize crew from the Moewe on board. Her arrival caused a profound sensation since it was the first intimation the German commerce raider was again on the high seas.

On March sixth, the Moewe concluded her exploits by running the British blockade for a second time and safely reaching a German port. An official statement from Berlin stated that she had on board 199 prisoners and 1,000,000 marks in gold bars. It was said that one of her achievements was the laying of a mine which caused the destruction of the British battleship King Edward VII on January 10, 1916.

London, Oct. 7.—The entente campaign against Monastir in southern Serbia, is developing rapidly from both the south and the east. While allied forces have pressed to within not much more than a half dozen miles from Monastir on the south the Serbians have advanced northwest from Kalakacalan on the western slopes of the Nidje ridge. Here they are reported by Paris to have reached the valley of the Vela-boda, where it empties into the Cer-na at a point almost directly east of Monastir and about 16 miles distant from that city.

Further west along the shores of Lake Presba the entente operation against the Bulgarians also is making progress, according to Paris. French troops are participating in the movement here and have advanced northward three miles along the shores of the lake from Popli to the town of German, which is less than two miles from the Serbian border and 15 miles southwest of Monastir.

Sofia's official report today announces the defeat of a Serbian attempt to cross the Cerna southeast of Monastir and the repulse of an attack near Bahovo in the Moglenia valley, further along the line to the east.

The Russo-Rumanian attacks on Field Marshal Von Mackensen's forces in Dobrudja are proving abortive, Sofia declares. The repulse of assaults on the Bulgarians and their allies along the line south of the Constanza-Tchernavoda railway is reported. Bucharest yesterday reported progress for the Russians and Rumanians on the center of the line and toward the Black Sea coast.

The French front in the Somme region of northern France remains in a state of comparative quiet. The only offensive movement by the French within the past day or two has been to the east of Bouchevaines, where Paris has reported a slight advance in the direction of Moislains. Today's official bulletin issued by the French war office reported quiet not only on the Somme but all along the line to the south and southeast.

MANAGER ROBINSON PICKS VETERANS FOR BATTERY IN THE OPENING GAME

Shore, Pitching for Boston, Wins Opening Game; Score, 6 to 5

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Braves' Field, Boston, Oct. 7.—The Boston pennant winners of the American league, and the National league champions, the Brooklyn, the two contestants for the premier honors in baseball, engaged in the first game of the world series here this afternoon before what was apparently the largest crowd that ever looked upon a battle of bats for the baseball championship.

Some 42,000 or more spectators filled every seat in the expansive reaches of the stands and then overflowed into a large space temporarily fenced in for standers in deep right center field. Spectators reaped the proverbial harvest and then a little more off grand stand tickets.

A midsummer sun warmed the edge of what early threatened to be a brisk cool autumn day and noon found it warm and comfortable. The players in practice warmed into condition quickly and the fielding workouts were snappy and fast. A brass band piped its liveliest airs down near the home players' bench.

Manager Carrigan sent left handed Vean Gregg out to pitch in the batting practice for the Boston. He was evidently expecting that his club would have to face Marquard in the game.

The Brooklyn came on the field while the Boston was at batting practice. They were given a big hand by the crowd as Manager Robinson led his men to the visitors' bench. Jack Coombs and Ivan Olson, old American leaguers, came in for quite a reception from friends on the Boston club. The Brooklyn wore their gray traveling uniforms with caps to match and black and gray stockings. The Red Sox wore white uniforms, white caps, with red and white stockings.

During the Brooklyn's batting practice, "Duster" Mails, a left hander served up the benders, Manager Robinson evidently figuring that his club would be confronted by Dutch Leonard or Babe Ruth. Then Sherrod Smith, another left hander, was sent out to pitch to the Brooklyn.

Manager Carrigan while the Brooklyn were providing their batting practice took his team to the clubhouse where he had a talk with them and gave his final instructions for the game.

Shore and Ruth warmed up for Boston while Pfeffer, Coombs and Marquard worked out for Brooklyn. The umpires came upon the field at 1:55 o'clock and immediately conferred with the field captains and managers of both clubs.

The batteries for Boston were Shore and Cady; for Brooklyn Marquard and Meyers.

Umpire Connolly ordered all photog- raphers from the field. This caused some delay.

Boston, Oct. 7.—A crowd of great numbers turned today to Braves' Field for the opening game of the World Series of 1916. The Brooklyn, winners of the National League pennant, challenging the American League supremacy defended by the Boston club, holders of the world championship of last year, proved an object of wide appeal to baseball enthusiasts. The teams were favored in their first meeting by weather conditions closely approaching the ideal. The day was almost summer-like, with only a slight tang of autumn in the air which caused some spectators to bring wraps. There was wind likely to enter into the calculations of fielders. Clouds were fleecy-like and with no portent of rain.

It was this atmosphere, surcharged with the current of baseball's greatest event that the crowd gathered and exchanged gossip of the probabilities of play. Who will pitch for Boston, was the big question before the game. Manager Carrigan had upset calculations at the eleventh hour by authorizing the statement that his selection would be Ruth, Shore or Mays.

The identity of opposing pitchers was a considerable factor in the composition in the line-ups of either team, both Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn and Carrigan relying on interchangeable outfields to bring out added strength. Steangel, a weak batsman against left handed pitchers, has no chance in a Brooklyn line-up against Ruth or Leonard. His place will be taken by Johnston. Similarly, Walker, Speaker's successor at centerfield, for Boston would be thrown out of competition with Marquard in the box for Brooklyn. The recruit Shorten being a more effective batter against pitching from the south side. Manager Carrigan, it is understood, has decided to have Hoblitzel play at first base throughout the series instead of putting in Gainer against a left handed pitcher.

The umpires are: Connolly (American League) behind the bat; O'Day (National League) on the bases; Dineen, (American League) left field; Quigley (National League) right field.

The mass of people who swarmed through the broad reaches of Braves' Field, chosen as the stage for the local games because of its tremendous seating capacity, grew from small groups who had spent the night at the bleacher gates. The night line was smaller than had preceded any world series game played in this city in recent years.

At day break, knots of 50 persons each were gathered on the threshold of the park, awaiting the opening of the gates. Some slept, others walked about, while more eagerly read forecasts of the game in morning newspapers, bon-fires were lighted to burn off the morning mists which came off the Charles river.

Later automobile parties began to arrive. Out of town enthusiasts poured in by automobile and train. Many carried suit cases or boxes, serving the double purpose of a seat. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.)

CAT HAD RABIES; LAMPTON CHILD BITTEN FRIDAY

Carl Lampton, the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lampton, living west of Newark was attacked by a cat which was mad, Friday afternoon. The examination of the cat showed rabies and the child will be given the Pasteur treatment by Dr. Carl Dillon.
It was while on his way to school that the animal attacked him, biting him on the left arm. An investigation showed that the cat had been bitten by a dog and had later attacked another dog and man. After the attack on the Lampton child the animal was killed and the head sent to Columbus by Dr. Dillon. Word was received today that the animal was rabid.

GAME WILL BE 60-40

Emmett McDaniel received a telephone call from the manager of the Schullman Syracuse team. The Columbus team manager, asking that tomorrow's game be played winner take 60 and the loser 40 per cent of the gate receipts. McDaniel accepted the offer. This will make the contest more interesting as the players will strive for the long end of the receipts.

She Was One of Them.

Once a high school principal was having a dispute with one of his teachers, a vivacious young lady. She claimed that the word "man" meant mankind as a whole, while "men" always signified the masculine gender.

The principal maintained that there were exceptions and triumphantly quoted, "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels,"
But the young lady answered demurely, "That won't do, for, you see, both genders are mentioned there."

The Old General Muster.

Under the old militia system that prevailed about seventy years ago the states were divided into districts, each one having a company to which all men of soldierly age were required to belong and give a few days each year to military drill.

Every year there would be a "general muster," at which the various companies would gather and under the command of a plumed and beaupangled officer would perform the various evolutions and go through the manual of arms that would strike with awe the surrounding crowd of women and children gathered to witness the heroic displays of fathers and brothers.

These general musters were great events in the times of our grandfathers. They were social as well as military and often adorned with feasts of warlike provender. In one of his speeches Tom Corwin told of a general muster in which the brave militiamen, with bayonet and sword, charged on a pile of watermelons and cut the red hearts out of the enemy.—Columbus Journal.

Quite Different.

A tenant of Lord Halkeston, a judge of the Scotch court of sessions, once waited on him with a woeful countenance and said: "My lord, I am come to inform your lordship of a sad misfortune. My cow has gored one of your lordship's cows, and I fear it cannot live." "Well, then, of course you must pay for it." "Indeed, my lord, it was not my fault, and you know I am but a very poor man." "I can't help that. The law says you must pay for it. I am not to lose my cow, am I?" "Well, my lord, if it must be so I cannot say more. But I forgot what I was saying. It was my mistake entirely. I should have said it was your lordship's cow that gored mine." "Oh, is that it? That's quite a different affair. Go along and don't trouble me just now. I am very busy. Be off, I say!"—American Law Review.

Difference in Complexions.

The difference in the complexions of people is due to the varying amounts of pigment or coloring materials in the cells of the skin. Very light people have very little pigment; very dark people, those with dark eyes and black hair, have a great deal of this coloring material in their cells. A great many people are neither light nor very dark. They have less than the dark complexioned people and more than the light complexioned people. When the hair turns gray it is because the pigment has disappeared. As this is due to the loss of this coloring material, dark complexioned people turn gray sooner than light complexioned people. The structure of the skin showing how these cells are made in layers can be seen by examining the skin with a microscope.

Water Birds.

Water birds, singular as it seems, are the only ones whose skins never by any chance get touched by water. So long as they are alive and long after they are dead they float with an air chamber all round their bodies, cunningly contrived of waterproof feathers closely overlapping each other. Thus, in a sense, water birds may be distinguished from all others by the fact that they never wash, though we can hardly blame them for that, because if water could penetrate between their feathers the poor things would never be dry.

"Yarbs" We Have Known.

What has become of the elderly lady who in the seventies and earlier always referred to an "herb" as a "yarb"? The word has gone out of use. About the meanest "yarb" was a bitter weed named "thoroughwort." Then there were cammelle, dockroot and dandelion, in their miserable partnership, lobelia and catnip. These things were "steeped," and you took them or had them thrust upon you "for your blood."—Exchange.

The bean is comparatively new as an edible. Our common bean is a native of South America and was introduced into Europe, whence it came to this country during the sixteenth century and now is represented by over 150 cultivated varieties.

and lunch receptacle. The barriers were swung clear at 9 o'clock and all were forced to pass immediately into the grounds. There they found the field ironed into perfect playing conditions, the scars of a season's spikes removed. A platform to the right of the home plate aroused curiosity until a groundkeeper explained that it was for the use of moving picture men. The great capacity of the field had been extended providing space for 45,000 persons through the erection of a fence across right field from the smaller stand to the wall. These standing spaces, together with 2,000 seats in the extreme right field corner, sold at fifty cents each, a price so low that the gates were jammed at an hour when the grand stand entrance were deserted.

Reservations, however, had been virtually sold out hours ahead. So great was the demand that could not be satisfied, some of the friends of the officials, and players, that President J. J. Lannin of the Red Sox increased an earlier offer at a premium of $1 a ticket to an offer of $5 above the ticket's face value. He reported that he was able to buy back only a few.

The players did not hurry to the field. The Brooklyn club members who arrived last night spent much of the forenoon about their hotel. All appeared to be in good condition. "We realize that we are up against a big proposition in the Red Sox, but I know the boys are capable of it. Of course we expect to win but in how many games, no man can tell," said Manager Robinson.

SERVE

FOR THE PLEASURE OF SERVING IS A MESSAGE TO KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Mansfield in Closing Address Dwells on Importance of Serving the Master.

The final sessions of the annual convention of the Ohio branch of The King's Daughters and Sons was held at the Second Presbyterian church, Friday, and Toledo was selected as the place of meeting for 1917. Most of the officers were re-elected for the coming year, and both Mrs. Gagle, state president, and Mrs. F. J. Mansfield, the honor guest from Iowa received gifts as tokens from the convention.

Following the opening hymn Rev. C. H. Stull, pastor of the Fifth Street Baptist church led the devotionals. Two vocal numbers featured the music of the program, and the singer were followed by the announcement of the state president.

Among the announcements made by Mrs. Gagle was one of the new membership certificates. She explained the new cards and told of their adoption.

The remaining county reports which had not been given were called for and the first speaker was Mrs. Jennie Weaver of Licking county. Licking county has seven circles, the Sunshine Circle being nearly denominational, being affiliated under the First M. E. church.

The Whatsoever Circle has 24 members, their active work being done through the Associated Charities and Visiting Nurse chapter.

The Visiting Nurse chapter is composed of three circles, Whatsoever, Brightening and Sunshine circles. This chapter has answered 29 calls during the year.

The Cup of Cold Water Circle of Granville has 138 members. Their total disbursements being $378.

The Opportunity Circle of Utica in the year past, showed a wonderful activity in every line with a total disbursement of $282.75. The total amount raised in Licking county has been over $2,000, nearly all of which has been disbursed where it was most needed.

The Marion county report was read by the president, Mrs. Lusk. This county has five circles.

Miss Ford made a presentation to Mrs. Gagle, state president, and Mrs. Mansfield, the honor guest of the convention, each was presented with a King's Daughter ring, which was purchased by those attending the convention. Ninety-one cents were a surplus from the ring fund, and in a bright way the 91 cents were also presented and that amount is to accomplish wonderful things for the order.

The speaker of the evening was again Mrs. F. J. Mansfield of Burlington, Ia. She first told of Mrs. Evans, the international president of the order. Mrs. Evans said that the more she knew about the order the prouder she was of it.

Mrs. Mansfield said Ohio was among those doing the very best work and it is doing a great deal more than the majority of the organizations of the order.

"If we can assist anyone to be of service we are doing a great work for it is only in being able to do things that life is really worth while. We are beginning to realize the possibilities of our own life. The religious phase of our work has often been overshadowed by the material things. What we need now is spiritual growth. With our watchword and our cross with 'I. H. S.' on it always before us it has really grown so familiar to us that it doesn't mean so much to us and we do not realize its true meaning.

"If many of us in saying our prayers would be taken literally when we say 'forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us,' how many of us would dare to recite the prayer?

"Where we fail most is in failing to put into application the things we learn in our church services and in our prayers. If you be at enmity toward anyone go first and set yourself right with God.

"We often hear the plea 'we are organized to death.' Well we are organized to death, but the thing to do is to learn and know what is really the thing worth while and then join that."

Mrs. Mansfield eulogized in glowing terms, Sophia Wright, telling of her wonderful character and of her wonderful work.

"When you serve, serve out of pleasure to the Master. I wish our greatest effort could be put into getting the young and getting them early in life, so they may learn to serve in the name of the Master."

Mrs. Mansfield told how the laws of steam and electricity were discovered and how the discoverers became masters of them. "So we must become masters of the law of God."

"How many of you are making it the study of your lives to know the laws? How many of you pray as you should? Have you ever felt the obligation you owe God?"

A fervent prayer by Mrs. Mansfield concluded her address.

The consecration service and benediction concluded the convention.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The afternoon again took up the discussion of Rock Lodge Inn and the matter of raising the amount charged for board at the Inn was voted upon. The amount previously charged has been $3.50 and an effort was made to raise the amount to $4.00. The great cost of food-stuffs at present was advanced as the reason for the increase.

The motion caused an argument to ensue, some advancing the theory that this home was maintained for girls as a feature of charity work and it should not be maintained as a profitable investment.

Many discussions ensued and the motion to raise the board was rescinded and carried.

The motion to raise the price was again put and carried, the price now being $4.00.

The paper, "Our Watchword," which was written by Mrs. A. R.

Teachout of Cleveland, was read by Mrs. Strang of Toledo.

The introduction of the paper spoke of Balboa, and the writer told of the selection of the motto, "In His Name." "Not for His Name or by His name, but 'in His name.' What a fellowship this implies. How much of what we do can we truly say we do in His name?"

"Daughters of The King, let us give Him our allegiance. Let us labor faithfully and loyally."

Mrs. A. E. Best, soprano, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Warren Jackson.

The reunion and consecration service which honored members who had long been members of The King's Daughters was held. The first two Jews were given over to those honored, those being members who have been associated with the order from 24 to 30 years.

The members were escorted to their seats by the pages and small children in white as the names of the counties were called.

The children scattered flowers in the paths of the honored guests. As they were seated Miss Bertha Fulton, accompanied by Miss Mary Hentze, sang.

The service was conducted by Mrs. Florence Willis of Columbus and she said it was but fitting that the organization was enjoying the 10 year celebration this year, that recognition be taken of the members who had given long service.

Mrs. Willis referred to the originators of the society on what a meager plan the officers were conducted. Mrs. Batone was one of the ten women who first interested herself in the work. The speaker told of the words of Miss Low Dickinson, who was the first general secretary.

Miss Blake one of the older members told of the amusing incidents connected with her work. She told of her first experience at a convention in Toledo.

A short symposium on "What the Order Has Meant to Me," was conducted among the older members and the reminiscences proved interesting and instructive.

Six members have belonged to the order for 30 years. Among them being Mrs. J. R. Ashbrook, Mrs. J. B. Jones, Miss Alice Ashbrook and Miss Bessie Felix.

The service concluded with the singing of the consecration hymn.

The report of the credentials committee was read and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Sarah F. Gagle, of Columbus; assistant state president, Mrs. F. E. Truax, of Columbus; secretary, Mrs. George Mendel of Steubenville; treasurer, Miss Geraldine Hord, of Marion.

Trustees, Mrs. J. F. Vogel, of Toledo; Mrs. A. R. Strang, of Cleveland; Miss Ellen Brady, of Fremont. The election was received with enthusiasm and the new officers were called to the platform and saluted. They promised to serve to the very best of their ability.

"A contest which speaks for itself" was given on the program and developed as a picture delineation of a model and non-model union.

It was a playlet in which first was represented a non-model circle. The circle convened late, gossip took up the first part of meeting. The hymn books were forgotten, all had brought their tanning, embroidery and favorite book. The minutes were forgotten, the paying of dues was hurriedly transacted. The comedy was entertaining in its satire and this was followed by model circle meeting. The second part was a regular King's Daughters meeting and everything was done according to routine.

The contrast playlet was given by the members of the Whatsoever Circle of Newark.

NOTED SUFFRAGIST IS OUT FOR WILSON

ELIZABETH GLENDOWER EVANS

Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, of Boston, member of the Massachusetts Commission which was the first in the United States to investigate women's wages, and which recommended a Minimum Wage Law, has declared herself as strongly in favor of the re-election of Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Evans says he has "made good."

"And those who have a contract with the people for social justice," she declares, "should be the ones above all others to vote him a continued lease of office."

Mrs. Evans, Suffragist, believes that universal Woman Suffrage will be attained more rapidly by the passage of a Federal Amendment than by the so-called state method. "Of course," says Mrs. Evans, "if the claims that Mr. Hughes' election would secure the passage of the Susan B. Anthony Amendment through Congress could be substantiated, this would weigh heavily with most suffragists. But such a claim is to distort facts; it carries with it no promise of performance."

"The Progressives should see that the Democratic party under President Wilson's mastery leadership has proven a real instrument of the popular will."

How One Woman Woos The Goddess of the Guffaw

Margaret Mayo, Author of
"Twin Beds," Analyzes the Art of Creating Laughter.

IT was Mme. De Stael, was it not, who once remarked that women must be lacking in a sense of humor, or why should they ever take men seriously? And Mme. De Stael's finding, curiously enough, has been that of the world at large. Men pride themselves on their sense of humor, as a rule, while denying the possession of that saving grace to the so called weaker sex. Generalizations, however, are apt to be misleading. This one about women and humor, for instance. Curious, is it not, in the light of that finding, that the best farce written in this country for years—possibly in any country—should have been the work of a woman? For to write farce, as to act it and appreciate it, depends entirely upon the possession of the rare quality of a sense of humor.

When she wrote "Baby Mine," which has been laughed at, and, incidentally, brought her royalties from all parts of the civilized globe, Miss Margaret Mayo may not have demonstrated the fact that the exception proves the rule. But, in any case, she did certainly demonstrate the fact that one woman at least possessed a distinctly keen sense of humor. And now in "Twin Beds," the current success of laughter at the Fulton Theater in New York, Miss Mayo proves that the humor of farce was not the result of accident, for in the new piece she is about equally successful in wooing the Goddess of the Guffaw. Wherefore, being an authority upon the subject of farce and laughter, Miss Mayo's comments should prove interesting. Pencil once remarked that "comedy is successful farce by a deceased author," which served to show among other things that the famous English playwright was piqued at having the term used in connection with his plays. And yet he need not have resented it. As "Twin Beds" is soon to be seen here Miss Mayo's views are especially interesting.

"The real distinction between a comedy and farce lies in the propelling power of the action," she says. "If this energy comes from the character of an individual or individuals and overcomes situations to a true expression of itself you have comedy. If the situation rules and the characters and puppets are tied to its strings you have farce. The distinction holds true equally well in respect to the narrow line between tragedy and melodrama, except that in the latter forms the action and the end are more serious. In the broad sense any play that progresses and ends without serious disaster to any of its characters belongs to the comedy scheme. If the humor is most largely derived from the extraneous juxtaposition of characters in the physical action of the play it can rightfully be termed farce, but in pure comedy the humor must be derived more largely from the mental and verbal contrasts. Many theatergoers are inclined to a view that anything which causes excessive amusement is farcical. This attitude of mind might eliminate some of the most delightful plays of Shakespeare and Moliere from the realm of comedy to which they rightfully belong. However, in these more or less irrelevant days the theatergoer is not particularly inclined to bother about terms. The question that generally concerns him is whether a play interests or amuses him, and its exact classification is a matter of little moment.

"The acting of farce, contrary to general opinion, is an extremely difficult art," continues Miss Mayo. "It is rather odd, is it not, that amateur actors usually select some well known farce to inflict themselves on their friends. Now, a serious play will very often carry conviction through its own innate force, whereas farce, to be effective, often requires the most delicate co-operation of author and players. Undue emphasis, a misplaced gesture and action that is too pronounced, can very easily upset all the calculations of the author. It is amusing when you come to study it how elusive laughter is in the theater. She is indeed a very easy person, and that is one of the reasons why in such a farce as 'Twin Beds' we have to rehearse at least twice as long as for an ordinary dramatic production. "It is not a mere question of both

Shortage of Cattle.

The American Bankers Association at its Kansas City convention has been considering the alarming decrease in cattle production. Much sentiment was developed in favor of an investigation of the subject by Congress.

Congressional investigations commonly provide simply a lot of black covered government reports which few people read. However this is an urgent subject, that some responsible authority should take up. Meat prices will keep climbing until more cattle are raised.

There is a difference of opinion among experts on the average small farm. Little progress has been made at restoring them to the many thousand farms through the Eastern and Central and Southern states where they used to be kept. Yet a recent investigation by Country Life in America seemed to show that cattle raising does pay. In one typical case in the state of Delaware, a profit of $1370 was made in 18 weeks on 46 head of cattle, with manure enough to fertilize 36 acres of cantaloupes.

One trouble is that the modern farmer is bewildered by the many suggestions of the new things he ought to take up. After reading them all his head swims. He decides to keep along in the old way, at which he is now doing quite well.

It would seem as if the great corporations concerned in meat production should be interested to work for a bigger supply. They must see that meat consumption per capita will surely fall off at present prices. If they would start a lot of demonstration farms, they could show the farmer just how cattle could be raised most profitably. Probably they could prove that it is possible for the small farmer to make a success of it.

When asked why they do not raise more cattle, farmers usually say that labor and feed and shelter cost too much. In the most fertile sections land can probably be used to better advantage in raising crops. But elsewhere there are enormous quantities of half used soil where the expense for feed must be greatly reduced.

Planting Trees.

There is a general impression that the time to plant trees is in the spring. With the approach of summer, people seem much more interested in plans of improvement. They are making gardens and cleaning up grounds, and it is easy to interest them in the idea of permanent beautification with foliage.

But according to the experts, there is no time better suited for tree planting than the fall. There is less demand then on the sapling for vitality, and it can spend its energy in acquiring roots.

The beauty of a town is more dependent on tree growth than any Physical Training.

It was formerly thought that children get all the physical culture they need in tumbling over each other in street play. But of recent years it is discovered that without care they grow round shouldered, narrow chested, and acquire spinal curvature and other troubles.

A notable step in the movement for physical culture was taken in New York a few days ago, when the state regents planned for physical training in all schools of the state.

It is little use to stuff children's heads, and send them out with weak bodies and shaky nerves. Even athletics do not meet the need.
While the nine and the eleven are being trained for baseball and football, all the rest are merely sitting on the bleachers watching and yelling. This does not provide physical development.

Every town can do something along this line. If it can't hire a physical culture teacher regularly, it can at least have occasional inspections of children. Teachers should be shown how to give healthful exercises.

Maybe There's Money In It.

(Farm Life.)
Farmer up in Morgan county, Ind., had a worthless hill. Found out it was a superior quality of blue clay. Now they're cutting it down and shipping it away by the car load to be used in the manufacture of pottery. That hill was worth more than all the rest of the farm.

Man down in Connecticut had a worn out piece of land. Couldn't even give it away. But it would grow trees. Son studied forestry and went to work in the right way.
Woodland now increasing in value every year, and worth more than good corn land.

Limestone ledges, phosphorus rocks, quarries, swamps—all have their value. Even the gravel beds and the sand pits, according to the United States Geological Survey, yielded $28,121,617 during the last year.

So it goes. Do not be discouraged if you have a piece of bad land. It may be worth something, some day.
There is mighty little waste in the economy of nature.

Intelligent Vegetables.
There are many intelligent vegetables. The witch hazel and jewel weed provide themselves with pogons to shoot their seeds to desirable rooting places; thistles and milkweed build silky parachutes to send their progeny adrift on long journeys to remote lands; agrimony and tick refool steal rides on every chance vehicle and thus establish themselves in pastures new.
But none of them seem to display the intelligence and reasoning power of the homely and cheery tassel, which lives one life of doubtfully useful majesty and another of certainly useful humility. It is well to note the small roadside tassel just now. There is an efficiency sermon in it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

To paint the town and take a dram.

In Society.
While it says right here in one of the esteemed advertisements that Bull Durham is universally recognized as the society smoke, we guess there must be some additional requirements for admission to our most exclusive circles, as we receive very few invitations to the drawing rooms of our leading brewers and patent medicine manufacturers and our socially prominent bankrupts.
—Ohio State Journal.

Heavens, man! Bull Durham isn't the only thing. You have to have esprit and sang froid and a pluribus unum and everything like that.

Did You Know
That perhaps there is no garment of greater antiquity than the shawl?
However, we have no distinct account of its manufacture until 1556, when the celebrated cashmere shawls were among the most important manufactures of the world, and were thought worthy to be minutely described in the "Ayin-i-Akbari," or "Institutes of the Emperor." So carefully was this manufacture fostered that it received the chief attention of the emperor, and every shawl made was described and registered. The true cashmere shawls were woven in many pieces and joined together with great artistic skill.

We make honorable mention of the limericks below, as you'll agree, un-

The boat they used,
And he cried, "Oh my pet,
The shore seems so very remote."

Those lovers knew not how to float;
Her form of good size
The boat did capsize;
So the coroner wrote out his note.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
Down stream they did lovingly float;
But they floated too far,
They got stuck on a bar,
At a distance from shore quite remote.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
To their parents each left a short note; Saying, "Look for us when You see us again."
Now, say, wouldn't that get your goat?

A Corker.
Two lovers went out in a boat,
And capsize! Then he whisked off his

Two lovers went out in a boat,
These lovers were young, take note;
The oars were neglected,
The result unexpected.

Two lovers went out in a boat,

They floated so long,

Two lovers went out in a boat,
They took with them their pet nanny

She chewed up their shoes
On each other they surely did dote;
Good night! Then oh, how she did bloat.
—Miss Carol Wreth.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
Their song was attuned to one note;
Harmoniously they glide
On life's changing tide;
Would that possibly only my spinster

—Olivia Kate.

(P. S.)—showed this to a friend. She said this was not a Limerick; that a Limerick must be humorous. I insist this is humorous. The humor is so subtle that possibly only my spinster sixth sense can see it.)

Two lovers went out in a boat,
On each other they surely did dote;
They both sat and crooned,
In other words "spooned."
And sang, "It's a nice night to float."
—E. V. C. Thornville.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
Each dropped in the water a note;
The lad found a pearl,
The lassie an earl,
And neither regretted they wrote.
—Grace L. Copperider, Glenford.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
But their names were supposed not to be known;
Said the man to the maid,
"If you are not afraid
On the conjugal sea let us float."
—Mabel Rees.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
He was awkward as some Reuben's boat;
The boat he upset
Of course both got wet,
And now upon him she don't date.
—Mr. Grover Harris, Bladenburg.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
On love's golden streamlet to float;
But a wicked old shark Espied their frail bark,
And they took passage down his long throat.
—Nellie M. Hawke.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
They came up a rain;
Her sweetheart raised Cain,
And said, "Now you'll have a sore throat."
—Mrs. H. W. D. Tobson.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
But they sent back a note;
"You will know our little craft, Even tho' it be lost or raft."
By the good American Flag we float."
—Marie E. Hains.

Two lovers went out in a boat,
They took with them their mascot, a goat;
The goat ate the oars
Nine miles from the shores,
So cupid loved them in an afloat.

Now we've got the lovers settled, let us take a real man
With quite plebeian tastes, you know, to see if poets can Convert him into Limericks; we'll give a dollar to
The one who writes the best one; so just see what you can do.
We shall honorably mention all the others that get by.
Now, readers of the Advocate, come on

WRAY TELLS WHY
HE'S FOR WILSON

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—After bearing President Wilson at Omaha, Judge Arthur G. Wray, of York, Neb., who organized the Progressive party in this state four years ago, and acted as chairman of its two state conventions held at that time, besides being a delegate to the National Bull Moose convention at Chicago in 1916, and serving as Nebraska member of the resolutions committee, gave out an interview here today, warmly endorsing Wilson.

"From a Progressive standpoint," said Judge Wray, "the passage of the Eight-hour law is right in line with our 1916 platform. President Wilson has very nearly carried out the Progressive platform, not only as to the eight-hour day, but also the planks on child labor, taking the tariff out of politics, and other matters."

"His appointment of Brandeis to the Supreme bench and Rubes to the Federal Trade Commission furnish another strong testimonial to the progressiveness of his administration. I had never seen President Wilson until I heard him at Omaha.
I am now more favorably impressed with him than ever. A large number of our leading Progressives in Nebraska are for him, and there is good reason why they should be."

"I have a high regard for Judge Hughes as a man, but he appears to have no constructive program, and his insistence on repealing the present tariff law and going back to an old-fashioned high tariff dictated by men like Penrose, Smoot and Crane, does not appeal to Progressives. His apparent opposition to the income tax and inheritance tax are likewise unsatisfactory to them."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

- Acute Rheumatism.
- The remedies of most avail in acute muscular rheumatism, according to Dr. William Fitch Cheney of Stanford university in an address reported in the New York Medical Journal, are:
- First.—Rest. Nature usually enforces this method of manage-ment if the attack is sufficiently acute.
- Second.—Heat. Heat is always grateful and gives relief. It may be applied in a variety of ways.
- Third.—Purgation. It may be admitted that there is no sci-entific reason why purgation should aid, but the fact remains that it does.
- Fourth.—Salicylates. They do mitigate the pain, and they are trustworthy agents to use after the initial purgation.
- Fifth.—Opiates. Ordinarily all opiates are out of place because they have in general bad effects, that outweigh the good. Ex-ternally the old established lead and opium wash, applied hot, is a most valuable aid in removing pain.
- Massage, vibratory treatment, hydrotherapy and counterirrita-tion also have some value.

Is it right to introduce a person you are walking with to people you meet and who join you?" inquired Ruth.

"When you meet a friend on the street while walking with another friend and stop just for a minute it is not necessary for you to introduce your friends to each other unless you have reasons to believe that they would be congenial and mutually interested in each other. Of course, when a friend joins you, while you are walking with another friend, you should introduce them," answered her sister.

"Will you kindly tell me what is the proper thing to do when a man is called away from a dance before it is half over and he has engaged several numbers?" asked Harold. "He should go to every young girl with whom he has engaged a dance and make proper explanations and apologies," answered his uncle.

Resinol Surely Heals Sick Skins

When you know physicians have prescribed Resinol for over 20 years in the treatment of eczema and other itchy, burning, unsightly skin eruptions, and have written thousands of reports saying: "It is my regular prescription for itching," "Resinol has produced brilliant results," "The result it gave was marvelous in one of the worst cases of eczema," etc., etc., doesn't it make you feel, "This is the treatment I can rely on for MY skin trouble?"

When Resinol Ointment touches itching skin, the itching usually stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it almost always clears away eczema, ringworm, pimples, or other distressing eruptions quickly, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Sold by all druggists.

NAUTILUS EDITOR TURNS TO WILSON

Elizabeth Towne, Progressive Leader Says T. R. Erred in Endorsing Hughes.

ELIZABETH TOWNE.

Supplementing a ringing editorial in the October number of the Nautilus Magazine, Mrs. Elizabeth Towne, of Holyoke, Mass., has written to the Democratic National Committee telling why she has decided to support President Wilson, and why she believes the Democratic party is the party of progress.

Mrs. Towne and her husband, both noted leaders of the New Thought movement, have been prominent in the Progressive Party since its birth, having been delegates to the Chicago conventions. Mrs. Towne, as Editor of the Nautilus, declares that while she is still a Roosevelt enthusiast, she believes the Colonel "made a mistake in endorsing Hughes, as he made a mistake in endorsing Taft."

Mrs. Towne further said: "We think that in standing for Wilson we are standing for Humanity First and efficiency second. We believe that under Republican rule, for as many years as we can remember, we had efficiency first—and for by the predatory rich—and Humanity, not second, but last."

"Hughes has nothing to say for himself, and everything to say against Wilson. We don't think it is wise to have this country ruled by a sphinx. We must have a constructive policy, and so far, Mr. Wilson seems the only one who proposes such."

Plimsoll's Mark.
Any sailor will tell you that the plimsoll is a conspicuous mark on the hull of a vessel, usually an oval or ellipse of white paint with an arrow drawn through it to indicate the extreme water line when the ship has been loaded. As long as the plimsoll mark shows above the water the burden of freight in the ship's hold is not too great for her carrying capacity. The curious word is the badge of immortality of a philanthropist, Samuel Plimsoll, who was born in Bristol, England, in 1824. When he went into the coal business he learned of the horrible conditions under which the men of the British merchant marine had to work. Owners figured that it was cheaper to lose an occasional ship with all on board than to restrict the load and make the voyage reasonably safe. In order to thwart this rapacity Plimsoll entered parliament in 1858. His persistent work resulted in the passage of the "merchant shipping act" in 1876 to prevent ships from going to sea in an unsafe condition.

Hetty Green's Firmness.
Hetty Green nearly brought Collis P. Huntington to ruin once. She had $1,600,000 deposited in one of his banks and found that he was using the bank's money in investments that she regarded as ticklish. Besides, there had been deals in which she thought she had cause to make Huntington sit up and take particular notice of her. She appeared before an officer of the bank, a Mr. Stewart, and said: "I'd like my money right away—not in checks; in cash, please."

"Is there no other way, Mrs. Green?" he asked, beginning to perspire.
"None," said she. "Cash, please."
She got it—after a scurrying of many bank messengers—in all kinds of money and in such bulk that four messengers had to carry it for her, the while the rumor got out that Huntington was going to smash. As a matter of fact he did have a narrow escape.—New York World.

Granville

[Special to The Advocate]

Granville, O., October 7.—Rev. Emory W. Hunt, D. D., of Newton Center, Mass., officiated at the marriage of his nephew, Rev. Horace Hunt, of Geneva, to Miss Harriet Haggard of Boston, which was solemnized on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Hunt in Park Drive. The impressive double ring service was used, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Harold Haggard, recently returned from Russia, where all the other members of the family are now located. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Marion Rose Johnson, a sorority sister of the bride, sang "Beloved It Is Morn," and "The Voice That Breathed Over Eden."

Miss Rachel Kendall at the piano played the wedding march and to those familiar strains the wedding party descended the stairs and moved to the improvised altar in the living room, a background of palms and greenery, with cathedral candle, at either side. Miss Grace Shenberger, of Charleston, W. Va., was bridesmaid, and Miss Margaret Geach of Boston, maid of honor. The bride, attired in white silk net, wearing a veil most becomingly arranged, and carrying a magnificent bouquet of valley lilies and bride roses, followed, attended by her brother. The groom had no attendants. After the bridal couple and their mother, Mrs. Helen Hunt, had received the felicitations of the guests, the company repaired to the dining room beautifully decorated with smilax and pink roses, and partook of the wedding dinner. A clever device for disposing of the bride's bouquet was employed. This was a large, white artificial rose from which depended ribbon streamers. Each of the bride's unmarried friends present drew a ribbon, to each of which was attached a tiny envelope enclosing a cupid. There was one exception, and that was the lucky card which drew the prize.

Miss Margaret Gooch, the maid of honor, was awarded the "lucky omen" card, and Mrs. Hunt left for a wedding journey of which the itinerary will be announced to their families, later, as the guests were kept in ignorance of their destination. A cablegram of love and congratulation from the bride's mother, father and brother in Russia, was read.

No more popular girl has ever left Denison than Miss Haggard. She was identified with nearly all the important activities of college life. She belonged to the Kappa Phi sorority and gracefully discharged her social obligations; she was vice president of her class, 1912; was leader of the Shepherdson club; a member of the church choir; president of the Y. W. C. A. and active in athletics. With all this experience she was well equipped for the important post of traveling secretary of the student volunteer, which she filled after her graduation.

The groom, Rev. Horace Hunt, is the only son of Mrs. Helen Hunt, who received his college education at Denison, graduating in 1912, and afterward taking a three year course at Rochester Theological Seminary. He was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and is at present the successful pastor of the Baptist church in Geneva.

Out of town guests at the Hunt-Haggard wedding last evening were: Miss Helen Hunt of Newton Center, Mass.; Miss Margaret Gooch, Boston; Miss Grace Shenberger, Charleston, W. Va.; Miss Ruth Babell, Toledo; Miss Katherine Mack, Canton; Miss Ethel Dye, Akron, all former students at Denison and members of Kappa Phi sorority.

There was a called meeting of the Greater Granville club on Friday evening. It was decided to recommend to the council that residences and business houses in the village be numbered. A resolution was adopted to request the council to grant a franchise to the Ohio Heating Power and Light company, W. A. Holmes, representing the Ohio Baptist assembly, asked co-operation in securing the permanent location of the assembly at Granville. This matter was referred to committees on entertainment and education, to report next Friday night, Oct. 13. Prof. W. A. Chamberlin desired to secure the co-operation in a course of education, consisting of lectures, with only a nominal fee, to defray running expenses. This matter was referred to the same committee.

At the Presbyterian church tomorrow, Rev. Payson Linnell will preach for the Grange service at 10 o'clock, and Prof. H. D. Fish will have charge of the men's class at 11:15. Why Meddle to Your Own Heart? will be the theme for the evening discourse by the pastor, Rev. E. D. Barnes.

A. quartet, composed of Misses Juliet Barker, Ruth Wickerden, Madeleine Edgerly and Ruby Barnes furnished the music and Miss Sarah Taylor read a letter from India.

Our Boys and Girls

Where is the mother of yesterday who understood her boys game of football, who encouraged him in his athletics and who was as enthusiastic as he along those lines? Where also could one find twenty years ago the woman who played tennis with her daughter, taught her to golf and swim as well as sew, and accompanied her to dances, not as a staid chaperon, but as one who enjoyed dancing too?

And yet this type of modern mother exists in hordes today. She is no curiosity but a reality, who is gaining the companionship as well as the love of the children she has brought into the world. And who shall say that she has not made of motherhood a more humane a more understanding profession than her dear old fashioned predecessors who rocked the cradle and darned socks?

So much has been written regarding entertainment for the little ones on rainy and stormy days that it would seem that all had been told but here is something that will be of great delight to them:

Take an old magazine, on its pages carefully paste cuttings, some news illustrations which made the pages look quite attractive. Save the fairy and other stories which are published in the Sunday papers, ask a friend or two to do the same; supply the children with blunt pointed scissors and a jar of paste. The result will be many happy hours and an amusing as well as an instructive lesson.

Of course a blank book or scrap book is more substantial, but for economy and pastime an old magazine will answer. Pictures from old calendars are good, as they usually picture some noted spot about which mother can readily weave some story starting with the time honored "once upon a time."

DEMOCRATIC LAWS THAT HELP FARMERS EIGHT HOUR ATTACK IGNOBLE, SAYS OLNEY

Federal Employment Bureau One of Many Wilson Achievements. Hughes "Hadt't the Nerve" to Demand Filibuster on the Law.

MONEY FOR CROP MOVING. WILSON'S ACT COURAGEOUS.

Rural Credits, Federal Reserve Act, Good Roads, Warehouse Law, New Grain Standards and Improved Marketing System.

By FRANK G. ODELL, Editor of the Nebraska Farm Magazine. Do you know that your postoffice is now an employment bureau? That is one of the new things Uncle Sam has started during the present administration. Secretary Wilson of the department of labor has tackled the task of bringing the jobless man and the manless job together, and now every postoffice is an agency of the United States employment service. The postmaster is equipped with blanks for listing applications for labor or for employment and is instructed to help get the worker and the job in contact.

While this may appear to be principally in the interest of the worker, it is really one of the numerous far reaching things started for the benefit of the farmer by the administration of President Wilson. The increasing scarcity of farm labor has become a problem to the farmer, especially in the wheat growing and fruit growing sections. This labor, which is of a seasonal character, necessarily must be performed largely by itinerant workers. Some agency which will meet this demand and relieve the laborer of the graft of employment agencies is necessary. Uncle Sam has started it.

A single illustration will show how the system works: In the Willamette valley of Oregon thousands of temporary workers are needed in hop picking time. On Aug. 20 the Oregon Journal of Portland printed a news article about the new government employment agency, stating that 600 families could obtain immediate employment in the hop yards by applying at the Portland division of the federal employment service.

This is another item added to the mass of accumulating evidence which shows that the Wilson administration has tried to give both labor and the farmer a square deal. For the first time in history this administration has placed the needs of rural districts squarely before congress as of equal importance with the interests of the financial centers.

And why not? Financial centers would not amount to much without the nine billion dollar crop of the American farmer. But the interests of the farmer have not always been so prominently and favorably considered by congress as they have during the last three years. The record of Democratic claims for farmer support is a record of accomplishment. It reads like this in the passage of laws and administrative acts:

CURRENCY REFORM.—The federal reserve act, under which the farmer's paper is given special consideration, including permission to national banks to loan on the security of farm lands.

RURAL CREDITS.—An epoch making legislative measure which will relieve the farmer of the incubus of the short time loan at extortionate interest. This measure alone, when in full force, will save the farmers of the United States one hundred and fifty million dollars annually in interest charges.

GOOD ROADS.—Seventy-five million dollars made available for the development of roads from the farm to the market, under conditions which will prevent wasteful use of the money.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION.—The passage of the Smith-Lever act brings to every American farmer, through the joint co-operation of the federal government and the states, the help of these agencies in solving the business problems of the farmer.

COTTON FUTURES ACT.—Deals a death blow to gambling in this great staple.

UNITED STATES WAREHOUSE ACT.—Enables owners of stored products to obtain loans on warehouse receipts more nearly approximating the full value of the product.

GRAIN STANDARDS.—A law enacted last August authorizes the secretary of agriculture to establish official grain standards. This law is working. The farmer who has been robbed through juggled grain grades for years will appreciate its value.

CROP MOVING.—The surplus funds of the treasury department have been placed directly in the hands of the south and west to aid in moving crops during the customary season of money shortage.

INTEREST ON GOVERNMENT DEPOSITS.—Banks holding government deposits are now required to pay 2 per cent interest. This cuts off a big graft which formerly came from the free use of huge sums of the people's money. More than a million dollars revenue annually is now derived from this source alone.

IMPROVED MARKETING SYSTEM.—The farmer has for years felt the power of the market combine, with its waste, inefficiency and dishonesty. The office of markets and the rural organization service, established in the department of agriculture during this administration, are working on scientific lines to promote better marketing and co-operative business organization among farmers.

These beneficent measures, with many others, show why the farmer is satisfied with the Wilson administration.

A policewoman has just been added to the force at Trenton, N. J.

Member of Cleveland's Cabinet Praises President's Domestic Achievements and His Policy to Keep Country Out of War.

No American can speak with higher authority on the issues of this campaign than Richard Olney, who was President Cleveland's attorney general during the railroad strike of 1894 and President Cleveland's secretary of state when the Venezuelan message was sent to the British government. He should know whether President Wilson's action in averting the railroad strike was a "surrender to force" whether the Wilson foreign policy has been "timid and vacillating."

Mr. Olney speaks of a retired statesman, of a wise, experienced, dispassionate patriot, who is concerned only with the welfare of his country. Mr. Olney has written for the New York World a signed article in which he warns the American people against the danger sure to result from turning over their affairs to Mr. Hughes and the interests which would dictate his policies, foreign and domestic.

Where Was His Nerve? Discussing the passage of the Adamson eight hour law, Mr. Olney points out that the Republicans of the senate, if they had really wished more time for the consideration of the bill, could have obtained it by means of a filibuster, a recognized senatorial weapon, and adds:

"Why did not the Republican senators resort to it and get all the time for deliberation they wanted? What was Candidate Hughes doing that he did not make the wires hot with messages to Washington—warning against the law the seventy-four Republican representatives who voted for it and urging the twenty-eight Republican senators to filibuster to the last ditch?"

"But neither he nor the Republican leaders generally had the nerve to face the situation. With ample means in their hands to prevent legislation until after its due consideration, they deliberately elected that it should appear to be enacted under coercion in order that after the great national deliverance had been effected they might object to the mode of its accomplishment."

"A pettier and more ignoble game of politics never was conceived. In comparison and in view of the sudden and extraordinary exigency sprung upon the country President Wilson's course was characterized by both courage and common sense."

Of Candidate Hughes' conduct in the campaign Mr. Olney remarks:

"No sooner was the nomination assured than the robes and ermine of the judge fell from the candidate as if by magic, and there appeared in their place the motley wear of the ordinary office seeker—a transformation as sudden as that made by the wand of Hocus in the pantomime, and a transformation showing how thin is the judicial veneer, and forever discrediting the United States supreme court as a training camp for high political office."

Has Kept the Rudder True. In its conduct of foreign relations the Wilson administration, Mr. Olney says, "has kept its rudder true and has won and deserved the respect and gratitude of the country."

The principles and objects of the Wilson foreign policy as stated by Mr. Olney have been:

First—To keep the country out of the great European war.

Second—To insist upon the existence and vitality of international law as determining its own status as a neutral, and defining its rights and obligations as such.

Third—To deal with the Mexican situation in a spirit of perfect fairness and friendliness to the Mexican people, now suffering from civil dissensions and revolution to an extent which leaves a large part of the country in a state of anarchy.

Mr. Olney shows that all these objects have been attained through the wise, patient and courageous diplomacy of Woodrow Wilson; that the president has kept the country at peace without dishonor; that under his leadership "the United States has rendered an inestimable service to belligerents and neutrals and to all mankind" in "steadily bearing aloft the banner of international law as the standard under which all civilized peoples must eventually gather."

Mr. Olney finds particular cause to commend President Wilson's Mexican policy. He stands with the president in declaring that the Mexicans have the right to work out their own destiny even through revolution.

Closing by asking what is likely to happen if the "presidential tiller passes into new hands," Mr. Olney says that Hughes' inducement to change the existing foreign policies of the country would be very great.

"The American people can hardly fail to realize the danger and to refuse to put at risk the continuance of a foreign policy which, as a whole, must have their hearty approval."

"Casey at the Bat," the Triangle De Wolf Hopper comedy to be seen at the Auditorium theatre tomorrow, tells in picture form the story of the famous baseball poem which Hopper has recited from countless stages and at innumerable social gatherings since it first appeared. More than a quarter of a century ago. It will be recalled that Casey, the invincible slugger of the Mudville baseball team, came to bat one afternoon in the ninth inning of a close game with a rival nine and, when a hit was needed to win, gloriously struck out, leaving the entire populace of Mudville gasping with amazement and drenched in gloom. The poem does not reveal what untoward circumstance it was that caused Casey to fall down so grievously at a crucial moment. This the William Fox master photoplay. The last showing of this feature will be seen today together with Pathe's famous weekly in which the latest current events are seen. The pictures today will be continuous.

Whether you want war or peace, take a little tip and see Herk-Kelly & Damsel's carnival of fun, "The Cabaret Girls," which will be seen at the Auditorium Monday afternoon and evening. This year's edition of "The Cabaret Girls" is living up to its reputation from the reports along the line where it is filling all the large theatres on the American Wheel circuit. "The Cabaret Girls" are alive with its show girls, goddesses and its poney divinities, and are the very best that could be discovered in show-girldom.

A special ladies matinee will be given Monday at which time ladies will be admitted to the best seats the Auditorium for matinee and night, Saturday, Oct. 14.

A combination which promises to outshine in brilliancy any other offering of the season will be the joint appearance of the Russian symphony orchestra. Modest Altschuler, conductor, and Lada, the famous rhythmic dancer, at the Auditorium Theatre on Tuesday evening, October 17.

The full touring strength of fifty men will be brought here and the first part of the program will be entirely orchestral with Michel Guskoff, the concertmeister, appearing as violin soloist in the "Rondo Capriccioso" of Saint-Saens. In the second and third divisions of the program the stage will be given over to Lada, who will dance five members in all to the accompaniment of the orchestra.

Every opportunity will be given to judge the art of this world-famous dancer in his many phases, for she will first appear in Russian costume dancing the "Kamarinskai" or Mosquito dance from Glinka's

Grand.

The topic with which "The Yellow Menace" deals is easily the most important submitted to public notice in the United States during the present generation. In a nutshell, it is the case for preparedness. But a picture serial, with all its wonderful developments, has also the limitations of the screen. It can only depict; it cannot argue. So, in the marvelous happenings featured by "The Yellow Menace" authors, producers and actors have collaborated in an appeal to the intelligence of the people. Thus, the audience is shown how a leader evolved from the teeming masses of the East—a creation entirely possible—a scientist of real ability, and a thinker of death and rigidity, can nevertheless become a brutal fanatic who stops short of no means to exalt the Yellow Race at the expense of the white. All Singh, the miscreant who figures throughout every episode of "The Yellow Menace," is just such an abnormal individual. What he succeeds in doing throughout these exciting scenes indicates to the thinking mind a real danger lurking in the future. If this lesson can be driven home, this series of films will render a national service. There can be no questioning their excellence and dramatic effect, and pains have been taken to insure that their political significance will also make itself felt. See it at the Grand on Sunday.

"Into the Death," the second episode of the Pathe's Wonder Serial, "The Shielding Shadow," is a thrilling chapter containing one of the most remarkable scenes every filmed, the attack upon a man by an octopus will be shown at the Grand Sunday.

Jerry Carson reported lost at set makes his way home and overhears his sweetheart Leontine promising to be Sebastian's wife. He does not know that she is doing this to save her father's fortunes and sick at heart, he sets out in search of a buried treasure. He locates it and while reading the diary of the shipwrecked scientist, the tentacles of an octopus coil about him and drag him into the sea.

Bird of Paradise at Hartman. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 12, 13, and 14, Oliver Morosco will present at the Hartman Theatre in Columbus, Richard Walton Tully's beautiful romance of the Hawaiian islands, "The Bird of Paradise." Those who have seen this wonderful original and appealing romantic drama, all are agreed that it is one of the genuinely unique offerings of the modern stage. It will be presented this season by an excellent company, headed by May Buckley, as Laura, the beautiful young Hawaiian girl whose love story is told in the play. With the company will be seen again, the famous Hawaiian quartette, whose songs and ukelele music make such a delightful feature of the drama, the scenes of which are laid in Hawaii.

Polite. "I wonder which of us will die first!" said a little boy pensively to his sister. "You will said the little girl briskly, "cos you are the oldest." "No," answered her brother, not anxious for the privilege. "Ladies first!"—London Answers.

mystery the picture promises to clear up. This wonderful feature, together with the two real Keystone comedy, "Wings and Wheels" will give our Sunday patrons another one of those elegant programs always seen at this theatre.

for twenty-five cents. The seat sale is now on and from present indications last Monday's crowds will be beaten.

New plays, new plays, and more new plays has ever been the cry of the theatrical producer. There are enough plays submitted but plays with real merit are few and far between. Like many firms The Lambert Producing Company, has a "safety first" motto and have adhered to the policy of producing book dramatizations: taking as a basis for judging the chances of a successful venture, a book that has had a very large sale, and with this point in view some ahead and had the best dramatizations made that could be made. So they have always produced book plays, this season however, among the avalanche of plays submitted was "The Other Man's Wife," its name was what caused it to first receive a hearing. After reading the play they were impressed to the extent that they immediately made overtures for the possession of the piece. It was the one play possessing that absorbing interest and novelty of construction that they wanted. Result, they have given it all that could be asked for in the way of scenic investiture and as good a cast as it was possible to get. The story of the play deals with the world old problem of double standard of morals. To be seen here at the Auditorium next Tuesday afternoon and evening. Seats are now selling.

Billie Burke in Chapter 19th, "Gloria's Romance," will be shown Wednesday and Thursday next week at the Auditorium.

An early booking at the Auditorium is "Twin Beds," starring Margaret Mayo's popular comedy, "Twin Beds," coming under the direction of A. S. Stern and Company. Not in a decade has any play scored such a laughing triumph as "Twin Beds," a story of domestic life in a fashionable New York apartment house. It is said to be a rare theatrical treat. The fun is quick and clean, the lines sparkling, witty, and the highly original complications in which the characters find themselves so birth-provoking as to be almost irresistible, and best of all, it leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth. "Twin Beds" comes to over a "Life for the Czar." Following this she will essay McDowell's "Shadow Dance" and then dance to the sad and haunting melody of the "Valse Triste" of Sibelius. Her concluding numbers will be illustrative of more familiar compositions—the Gashing and colorful Second Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt and the ever lovely "Blue Danube" waltz of Johann Strauss.

Alhambra.

How do you work the double exposure on the screen? That is a question which has puzzled many a movie fan. But whether you know how it is done or not, you will at least see that it is well done by Pauline Frederick in the famous play, "Ashes of Embers," which she is starring at the Alhambra Monday and Tuesday. In this unusual production the celebrated emotional actress is seen in the dual roles of Agnes, a divorcee, and Laura, her heartless poisoning sister. It is one of the most remarkable pieces of acting that even Miss Frederick has ever done on the screen.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

To the new members who have just joined, the association officers and board members extend a welcome. It will be the aim of these men to give the best service that the means of the association can provide for these new members. With so large a membership using the privileges it will be necessary for each group to hold strictly to the hours set for their special gymnasium privileges. In some cases there will be need of readjustment. The locker system will be crowded and there will be some difficulty in providing for all without some rearranging of lockers.

Taylor hall is being decorated and cleaned so that it will be in good condition for the grocers' convention which will be held here next week. Applications for the use of the hall should be made at least two weeks before it is needed to avoid confusion in reservation. Meetings should not be called by outside organizations without first making definite arrangements for the use of the hall.

The gymnasium classes start on Monday evening. A new schedule of classes has been published and provision has been made for a full program for each week. All members should be ready to start from the first.

The dormitory rooms are full and there is a waiting list. The membership for September was the highest of any month for many years. Many young men from industrial life are inquiring about membership. The outlook is good for a prosperous winter.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors will be held next Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Reports of committees for the month of September will be made.

The educational classes will begin on Oct. 16 with classes for foreign speaking men and mechanical drawing.

The first of the series of talks on salesmanship will be given in Taylor hall on Thursday evening Oct. 12th at 7:30 o'clock. Frank L. Beggs, president of the Chamber of Commerce will be the speaker. This course is free to all young men and women who are anxious to improve themselves. The subject of the first talk will be, "Personality In Salesmanship, Preparation for Salesmanship and Possibilities In Salesmanship."

News comes from the Zanesville conference that Rev. P. H. Frye is transferred to the Neil Avenue church in Columbus. The best wishes of the association for success in this new field goes with Mr. Frye. He has been a loyal supporter of the association here, and he shall be missed. A cordial welcome and good wishes are extended to his successor.

Rev. M. R. White who has been having his vacation on an auto trip through Indiana and Illinois writes the association from Mt. Carmel, Ill., saying that he has driven over 700 miles without a puncture. He expects to be home soon.

The association extends a cordial welcome to Rev. R. E. Carman who comes from Wheeling to be pastor of the Central Church of Christ in this city. He has been a member of the Wheeling association and speaks well of the work there.

Rev. L. C. Emerick who comes to preach at the North Newark Church of Christ is welcomed by the association and his membership will soon be recorded among the active members.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

The general association activities will be ushered in for the fall season by a splendid rally, which promises to be thoroughly enjoyable for everybody. There will be military music, short talks, an introduction of the secretarial staff, a social hour when all may have a chance to mingle and renew old friendships. There will be a "recruiting station" in charge of "Sergeant" Florence Lemert, where memberships can be renewed or a new one taken out. Also a place to register for any classes in which members may be interested.

The ushers will be "Red Cross Nurses" led by Miss Laura Pigg, aided by a number of other young women.

On Wednesday evening the Y. W. C. A. "cafeteria" presented quite a festive appearance in royal purple and white, in honor of the King's Daughters. Supper was served for the incoming delegates to the convention, and over 107 enjoyed a friendly welcome at the Young Women's Christian Association.

On next Thursday evening, Oct. 12, at 7:30, the first of the series of talks on salesmanship and business efficiency will be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. F. L. Beggs, of the Chamber of Commerce will be the speaker of the evening. Mr. Beggs needs no introduction to a Newark audience. It is hoped that all young men and women in the business world will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity, which is absolutely free of charge to all young people of Newark. Mr. Beggs' subject for the evening is "Personality in Salesmanship, Preparation for Salesmanship, Possibilities in Salesmanship." Don't miss this, it is well worth your while. If you want to attain success, this is the right kind of "Preparedness."

FISHERMAN WILL TAKE LAST FLING AT BUCKEYE LAKE

The Arcade, cigar and billiard room at Buckeye Lake Park are the only evidences of life about the place, outside of quite a few cottagers who will not leave for home until the weather sets in. The park hotels are closed but the lunch rooms along the beach bank are still in operation and the fishermen and park visitors can be accommodated. The Mauger Hotel is closed for the season as is also The Stag at the park.

Tomorrow will witness an exodus of fishermen from both this city and Columbus as many good catches have been reported the past week and lovers of the sport realize that it will only be a couple of weeks until they have to lay away rod and reel until next spring. Capt. Del Fisher is in the case and will make up his mind to buy boats and supplies for the season of 1917, which every one predicts will be bigger than the one of this year, which is about to have been the most successful in the history of Buckeye Lake Park.

PROGRESSIVES TO HEAR WILSON IN ADDRESS AT HOME

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 7.—President Wilson's program today included a speech to Progressives and Independents at Shadow Lawn. Returning from Omaha, he was up early this morning working on his address and reading telegrams congratulating him on his first middle-western trip.

The vanguard of the visiting delegations was due to arrive soon after the President's return to Shadow Lawn at 10 o'clock. Arrangements were made for seating the Progressives and Independents on the lawn and for admitting the general public to the grounds.

It was considered possible that either today or later the President would refer again to the settlement of the recently threatened strike. It was authoritatively said today that he takes the position that congress and he were not coerced into the settlement because neither side asked for legislation. On the other hand, it was said, he considers that he intervened after both sides had made it plain they were ready for a strike.

City Not Liable For Injury When Roaster Blows Up

In the case of Edward O'Grady vs. The City of Newark, the jurors returned a verdict in favor of the city. He sued to recover $5,000 damages for personal injuries sustained in 1911, when a peanut roaster on the square exploded.

AUTO RUNS DOWN BIKE RIDER IN WEST CHURCH ST.

It was a new Ford.

Fresh from the factory with the f. o. b. still attached, it possessed all the devilish perversity of an inanimate object. Its owner determined to drive the new purchase home, as he had been informed that "anybody could drive the car the first time."

Near the Bazler undertaking parlors in West Church street, shortly before noon today, the first engagement with trouble was encountered by the new owner, when he collided with a bicycle ridden by J. C. Backoven of Jefferson road.

Mr. Backoven was painfully bruised and his bicycle badly damaged by the collision. He was, however, able to continue to his home, while the new owner took a firmer grip on the steering wheel, and nosed the machine westward.

"I blew the darn horn, but the man didn't get out of the way," witnesses say the driver of the machine explained.

No Trouble at All.

"How's your boy Josh getting along with his studies?" asked Father Corn-tossel. "He don't bother 'em none," Washington Star.

NEWARK PEOPLE

AT DEDICATION

OF ROAD MARKER

Members of the Columbus Automobile club, together with representatives of the Ohio Good Roads Federation arrived in Newark shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon in a score of machines, nearly all of which were placarded with good roads signs and mottoes, on their way to participate in the dedication of a huge boulder monument near Brownsville, Licking county, marking the completion of the first stretch of the National pike built state aid, the federal government having appropriated $120,000 and Licking county furnishing 250,000.

The Columbus contingent were joined in this city by Newark motorists headed by President A. A. Stasel of the Newark auto club, Hon. W. D. Fulton, Geo. H. Moser, Manager, Chamber of Commerce, Jos. Orr, Frank R. Dumm and Orrville Kiger and clerk of the board Ben. J. Jones, and many others. Judge J. M. Lows of Kansas City was the principal orator. The ceremonies took place at Eagle's Nest, a short distance west of Brownsville.

One View of the Study of Latin.

If one does not study things because they "train the mind," why, then, should one study them? The answer is extraordinarily simple. One studies things because they serve a purpose. I do not say, mark you, a useful purpose, but a purpose—a valid purpose, a genuine purpose, not a make believe purpose.

Mental discipline is not a valid or genuine purpose—it's a make believe. Meanwhile the number of purposes, of genuine, valid purposes, is simply infinite. Learning to read Vergil is, of course, just as valid a purpose as learning to play a symphony or learning to bake a pumpkin pie. The test is, however, not, Did the student get mental discipline? but Can he read and enjoy Vergil? Can he play the symphony? Will some one eat the pie?

And because people rarely care to read Vergil, because almost none of the thousands who study Latin ever can or do read Vergil, therefore, in so far as they are concerned, studying Latin has no purpose and cannot be defended as mental discipline.—Abraham Flexner in Atlantic Monthly.

How Leaves Purify Air.

It has been calculated that a single tree is able through its leaves to purify the air from the carbonic acid arising from the respiration of a considerable number of men, perhaps a dozen or even more. The volume of carbonic acid exhaled by a human being in the course of twenty-four hours is put at about 100 gallons, but by Bonssingault's estimate a single yard of leaf surface, counting both the upper and the under side of the leaves, can, in favorable circumstances, decompose at least a gallon of carbonic acid a day. One hundred square yards of leaf surface then would suffice to keep the air pure for one man, but the leaves of a tree of moderate size present a surface of many hundred square yards. All other forms of vegetable life act similarly in abstracting the noxious carbonic acid from the atmosphere.

The Art of Optimism.

Live in the active voice, intent on what you can do rather than on what happens to you; in the indicative mood, concerned with facts as they are rather than as they might be; in the present tense, concentrated on the duty in hand without regard for the past or worry about the future; in the first person, criticising yourself rather than condemning others; in the singular number, seeking the approval of your own conscience rather than popularity with the many. Whoever lives the life of such unselfish devotion to the good of others and of all and lives it in the active voice, indicative mood, present tense, first person, singular number, is bound to find his life full and rich and glad and free—bound, in other words, to be an optimist.—William De Witt Hyde.

Feat of a Baseball Pitcher.

Just one pitcher in the history of baseball—that is, a hurler who was working in a league of recognized standing and class—is credited with pitching two complete games in succession wherein the opposing batsmen failed to register a base hit. A big pitcher sailing under the name of Gene Wright, who hurled for the Dayton club of the Western association back in 1901, on Sept. 1 of that season pitched a no hit, no run game against Columbus. He followed up this feat by turning the same trick against the Grand Rapids team on Sept. 4.—New York Sun.

Tibet.

Tibet is all mountains and valleys. There is scarcely a plain worthy of the name. The mountain passes are at a high altitude and crossed only with great difficulty. The valleys are well populated, but the cities are small and the houses crude buildings of mud walls. The streets are narrow and dirty. Northern Tibet is peopled largely by nomad tribes, while in the south there is a more settled population.

Bright Child.

"How long has your daughter been studying art?"

"Five years, and she has made great progress. She can talk about motifs and atmosphere and such things in such a way as to make you think she knows perfectly what she means."—Chicago Tribune.

In 40 years the sugar per capita of this country has increased from 18 to 89 pounds.

Quick Hitting.

Dr. White was once a champion boxer in Philadelphia. One day he asked a big teamster to move his wagon forward about two yards, but the teamster, instead of doing that, called the physician a wicked name.

Like a flash White knocked him flat in the gutter, and of course the teamster had him arrested. Magistrate Devlin heard the case, and the injured man complained bitterly that Dr. White had struck him so quickly he had no time to defend himself.

"Well," said the hardheaded magistrate, "what did you expect him to do—send you a postal card to tell you he intended to knock you down?"

The doctor was discharged without a fine.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Moving Pictures and Silver.

The moving picture industry is using a large amount of silver. There are about 20,000 picture houses in the United States, using approximately 120,000,000 feet of film regularly. The average life of a film is three weeks. Silver salts, used for sensitizing, are lost forever on being exposed to the light. It is estimated that 15,000,000 ounces of silver a year—a figure equal to Utah's total production—are used for this purpose.—Metal Mining Journal.

Insurance a Luxury.

To an old duffer baled before him a southern judge put this question: "Why did you burn your house down just after getting it insured?"

Whereupon the duffer replied: "Yo' honah, a pore man like me can't afford to have a house and insurance too."—Case and Comment.

Alligators' Eggs.

Alligators often lay from thirty to sixty eggs in a single nest. The eggs are similar in shape to those of a duck and about three inches in length. When they first appear the young alligators are about the same size as lizards and almost as lively.

Ambiguous.

When Bilkins was away from home on a long business trip he got a letter from his wife that still puzzled him. It ended thus:

"Baby is well and lots brighter than she used to be. Hoping that you are the same, I remain, your loving wife."

NEWKIRK DICKERSON BARBER

THE FAMILY CARRIED THE RISK

Three years ago, Philip Sullivan, of Fall River, died leaving a heavily mortgaged home, a widow and three children. In vain the widow worked to pay off the debt, the property was sold to satisfy the mortgage and the poor woman and the little ones were turned into the street. She brooded over her loss, became mentally unbalanced and finally was possessed of the fixed idea that if she and her children slept one night in the house one-third of its value would revert to her. Last New Year's Eve she smuggled them into the attic and the next morning the purchaser of the house discovered what had been done and sent for the police. At the station it was found that nothing could be done for her except to send her to the almshouse. The children began to cry piteously at the thought of separation and were with difficulty taken away to an orphan asylum.

Mr. Sullivan made the same mistake that many others are making today—letting the family carry the risk. If the breadwinner is taken away, there is nothing known that will make a mortgage let go so quickly as a Midland policy. It saves the home.

TOUCHDOWN FOUR MINUTES BEFORE END

NEWARK SAVES SELF FROM DEFEAT IN LAST QUARTER OF JOHNSTOWN GAME.

Couch Millson Finds He Has Squad of Players With Plenty of Fighting Spirit.

Playing a hard uphill game, and fighting every inch of the way from the end of the first quarter, Newark High yesterday afternoon at White Athletic field, defeated Johnstown High 9-7, when right half-back O'Hara plunged four inches over Johnstown's goal line, for the touchdown which sent 500 frenzied Newark rooters swarming onto the field.

The touchdown was scored near the finish of the last quarter of the game, when O'Hara ran 10 yards around Johnstown's right end.

O'Hara, buried under a mass of humanity, was hauled from beneath by excited Newark rooters, who rushed onto the field, when the referee decided the piskin was four inches across Johnstown's line.

The locals during the first half of the game resorted to straight football, but were unable to gain any ground through Johnstown's stone-wall defense. The first quarter was confined mostly to punting by both teams who after failing to advance on three downs, would boot the ball out of danger. About three seconds before time was called for the first quarter, Quarterback Davenport dove through Newark's center for a touchdown. Then he kicked goal.

Newark started the second quarter determined to tie the score. But after a number of futile attempts to advance by straight football, finally resorted to open football by using the forward pass. The first big gain made by the locals resulted in the first pass attempt, the ball going to the visitor's 20-yard line.

Fullback Orr dropped back for a try for field goal. The Newark line weakened by the furious attack of the Johnstown boys, but Orr succeeded in getting the ball away. The leather struck the side of the right goal post, wavered for a moment and then fell over the cross bars. This brought the count to 7-3 with Johnstown favored.

The last quarter displayed some wonderful fighting spirit on the part of the locals, the kind of spirit that is bound to win football games. See-sawing back and forth across the field the two teams held each other for downs and were then forced to punt out of danger. Near the last part of the quarter, Newark gained considerable ground by the aerial route and then with the ball on Johnstown's 10-yard line, O'Hara was given the call.

Throwing off three tacklers, O'Hara plunged toward the goal line. With victory almost within his grasp, a husky Johnstown boy hurled himself through the air and there was a cloud of dust. Referee McClure, disintegrated the mass of players and found the ball reposing exactly four inches over the line.

On kicking out for a try at goal, the ball failed to go near a local man and the extra point was denied. But this was no needed so long as Johnstown could be held. The rest of the game was played almost in the center of the field, neither team being able to advance into the other's territory.

Newark's back field is deserving of a great deal of credit for yesterday's victory, but in awarding the honors the linemen cannot be overlooked, because they were in there fighting all the time.

Right-tackle Thorpe of the locals starred in getting down the field under punts. Three times he brought a Johnstown man down in his tracks after the victor had received a punt. Orr, O'Hara and Brubaker featured with line bucks, while Fremer and Beatty split honors on the receiving of the forward passes.

Right Half-back Bishop was easily the feature of the visitor's play, making long gains by his vicious plunging. The score:

M'DANIEL LANDS FAST GRIDIRON STARS FOR GAME

The McDaniel football team will meet at the park tomorrow morning and run through signal practice, preparatory for the game tomorrow afternoon, when they meet the Schullman Sycamore team, of Columbus.

The Buckeye band has been engaged for the opener and a large crowd is expected to be present at Moundbuilders' park at 3 o'clock when the referee's whistle sends the two teams into action. The locals will be the same players which composed last year's McDaniel team, so the fans are assured of a real game.

Mr. McDaniel, who is again backing the team, is leaving nothing undone to promote the interest of the gridiron sport in Newark this season, even to securing star players from other cities. Clayton and Pfeiffer, of last year's Zanesville team will be in the lineup Sunday, and negotiations are now on to secure the services of McCullum, last year's star of the Deane Academy team.

Moundbuilders' park has been put in good condition by a gang of workmen, goal posts have been erected and everything is ready for the "kick off." Tickets for Sunday's contest are on sale at Atherton's cigar store, Pastime bowling alley and Orpheum pool room.
